

Oversharing and privacy

Name: _____

Class: _____

1. Warm up

The kind of thing I post most is...

A detail that could show where I live or study without me meaning to is...

2. Safer share, look closer, or risky share?

Think. Check. Delay. Protect. What you share can spread, combine, and stay longer than you expect.

Safer share

It reveals little and stays where you want.

- Posted later, not live
- No location shown
- Background checked
- A trusted audience
- No school, address or schedule
- Fine if it spread

Look closer

Small details could add up.

- School logo or uniform
- Street signs or landmarks
- Same place, same time
- Live location sticker
- Private account full of strangers
- Quizzes asking personal details

Risky share

It reveals too much or has already spread.

- Home address visible
- "Home alone" posts
- Always-on location with strangers
- Private photo forwarded
- Screenshots shared in groups
- Passwords or security answers

Quick check: tick the zone for each situation

Situation	Safer	Look closer	Risky
Story shows your home address in the background	☐	☐	☐
A private joke sent to one person	☐	☐	☐
Account set to private, but full of strangers	☐	☐	☐
"Home alone all weekend!" posted live	☐	☐	☐
Checking the background before posting	☐	☐	☐

Scenario discussion

Answer these with your group for each card you receive.

Card number: _____ ☐ Safer share ☐ Look closer ☐ Risky share

What does the post reveal?

Who could end up seeing it?

What one change would make it safer?

Who could help if it spread?

Fix the post

Card number: _____

What the post reveals

How I would fix it (crop, blur, post later, remove location, change audience)

My sharing habits (tick what you already do)

- ☐ I post later, not live.
- ☐ I check the background before I post.
- ☐ I keep my school, address and schedule out of posts.
- ☐ I only share my location with people I trust.
- ☐ I review my followers and privacy settings.
- ☐ I skip quizzes that ask for personal details.

Before you post

1 Think

Notice what the post reveals: place, school, routine.

2 Check

Look at the background, timing and audience.

3 Delay

Post later, after you leave.

4 Protect

Review privacy settings and your follower list.

One detail I will check before posting is...

One habit I will start is...

If something I shared spread too far, I would tell...
